

Legacy Electronics Partners with Gibraltar Business Capital for Legacy Credit Facility

July 17, 2014 11:00 AM Eastern Daylight Time

SIOUX FALLS, S.D.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--With funding completed this week, Legacy Electronics announced today a new partnership with Gibraltar Business Capital for a new Legacy line of credit that will help fund the company's planned growth and an expansion of the memory module and computer product firm's operations.

“Gibraltar Business Capital took time to understand our business and to structure a credit facility that will allow us to add significant strength to our growth plans. We're looking forward to a strong and successful relationship with them.”

Jason Engle, Legacy's chief executive officer, said, “Gibraltar Business Capital took time to understand our business and to structure a credit facility that will allow us to add significant strength to our growth plans. We're looking forward to a strong and successful relationship with them.”

“It's gratifying to know that our services can assist Legacy Electronics with the necessary liquidity in order for them to achieve their business goals,” notes Scott Winicour, COO of Gibraltar Business Capital. “We're pleased that we are able to support a wide range of companies in a variety of industry sectors across the U.S.”
